FREEDOM OF THE PRESS.

The Precious Boon is Attacked in New Zealand.

In the report of a speech delivered at Auckland by Mr. Crowther, a prominent man there, occurs the following:

The greatest grievance of the Government, went on Mr. Crowther, was the Opposition Press. So the Government had introduced a newspaper libel bill, which, amongst other things, made it compulsory that every person who wrote to the newspapers should sign his name in full. ("Quite right," and "No.") Some gentleman said "quite right," but he (the speaker) was prepared to fight him on the subject. The most useful work that had been done in the press, had been done by persons who dared not sign their names. (Loud applause, and "Why not?") Why not? Because they might lose their situations and be ruined. (Hear, hear.)

Antarctic Ice.

The Norwegian bark Ophelia lately arrived at Auckland, New Zealand, from Rio de Janeiro. During the voyage, the vessel had quite an experience with ice, immense quantities of which were met with to the southward of the Cape of Good Hope. Captain S. P. Sorensen, the commander of the vessel, states that the first ice was sighted on December 10 in latitude 42° S., longitude 12° W., when about seven bergs were passed. For the next twelve days ice was sighted nearly every day, the masses in some instances being nearly six miles in length. It is estimated that about 17 bergs were passed, some of which were quite 500 feet in height, and presented a most magnificent spectacle.

Learn to Shoot.

At the recent distribution of prizes to the Second London Rifles, General Lord Roberts, in addressing the men, said that he "desired to impress upon them the necessity of practising musketry, as a man, however well-drilled he might be, was not much use before an enemy unless he could shoot straight. Drills could be learned by anyone, but musketry could not, and careful instruction and continual practice could alone make a marksman. When he saw a regiment high up in musketry, he felt sure that it contained a large proportion of skilful and intelligent men."

In the fall of 1893 a son of Mr. T. A. McFarland, a prominent merchant of Live Oak, Sutter Co., Cal., was taken with a very heavy cold. The pains in his chest were so severe that he had spasms and was threatened with pneumonia. His father gave him several large doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy which broke up the cough and cured him. Mr. McFarland says whenever his children have croup he invariably gives them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and it always cures them. He considers it the best cough remedy in the market.
